

14 PhD students are available within the Marie-Curie European Training Network on Computational Spectroscopy COSINE between September 1 and November 1, 2018.

Nodes are DTU, Denmark (2 positions), SDU, Odense (1 position, J. Kongsted), NTNU Trondheim (2 positions, H. Koch), KTH, Stockholm (2 positions, P. Norman), Heidelberg (2 positions, A. Dreuw), LMU in Munich (2 positions, C. Ochsenfeld), ENSCP in Paris (1 position, I. Ciofini) and Scuola Normale Superiore in Pisa (2 positions, C. Cappelli).

The financial framework for such PhD grants is particularly attractive.
