

Green Organic Synthesis

Giovanna Bosica, University of Malta

What does Green Chemistry mean? How can chemists be greener? The presentation will try to answer these questions and will provide an overview of Green Chemistry with an emphasis on organic synthesis. Some of the most important approaches to be greener using different methodologies will be covered with a focus on catalysis and waste minimization processes. Applications to pharmaceuticals will also be discussed.

